You are at Place de la Cathédrale

Before starting the hunt, a bit of history...
It took more than 250 years to build the Cathedral and it was finally finished in 1439. Look how strange it is, it only has one spire that is 142 m high!

Turn away from the Tourist Office and walk left alongside the Cathedral. Read the next bit before carrying on.

During the French Revolution, the Parisian revolutionaries wanted to demolish the cathedral’s spire. To save it, a man from Strasbourg came up with the idea of covering it with a huge object.

To honour this man, his bust was placed on the corner of building no. 24. Under the bust is a sign which will help you with the answer to question 1.

Question 1
Look at the sign under the bust to discover which piece of clothing, used to protect you from the cold, was used to cover the Cathedral’s spire.

No.16 is a very beautiful and famous house: it is decorated with wooden sculptures.

It is called the “Maison Kammerzell” after the grocer who bought it in the 19th century.

Be the best!

The spire is the highest point of a cathedral.
The French Revolution overthrew the monarchy in 1789. The people, starved for centuries, took revenge and attacked symbols of power like churches and cathedrals.
A sculpture of a bust shows a person from the waist up.
A sign is a notice or a picture which gives information.
A portal is the entrance of a church.

Question 2
At the corner of the house there is a bird. Which bird do you think it is?

- a pelican
- a crow
- a rooster

The Stork: the friendliest bird in Alsace!
If you want to meet some, go to the Orangery park, that’s where they live!

By the way, do you know how storks sing? They snap their beaks, we call it clattering!

Today it is the Œuvre Notre-Dame Museum which you can visit for free and where you can see other sculptures from the Cathedral. On the right of the museum entrance, you can catch a glimpse of a very pretty small Gothic garden behind cast-iron railings. This small garden, with its plants arranged like a checkerboard, is just like the gardens that could be seen in convents in the Middle Ages. Medicinal plants, herbs and flowers were grown there.

To the right of this garden, take the small “Passage Hans Haug” which runs alongside the small Gothic garden and turn left into rue du Maroquin.

Walk up to building no. 3.

In the Middle Ages, leather goods makers lived here and the street is named after the French word (maroquinier).

Walk down the street and stop at place du Marché-aux-Cochons-de-Lait.

Have fun trying to spot the only house in the square with several balconies. On the top of the roof a weather vane will help you answer question 5.

QUESTION 4
Look a bit closer: the plants are grown in squares, also called “checkerboards”. How many squares of plants can you count?

- 9
- 6
- 10

QUESTION 5
Look at the weather vane. What do you think it looks like?

BE THE BEST!

> Gothic is an artistic movement that lasted from the Middle Ages up to the Renaissance.
> The Middle Ages was the time of the crusades, when castles and cathedrals were built. Strasbourg has a lot of buildings from this period.
> Leather goods maker craftsman who uses leather to make bags, shoes and wallets.
> The weather vane is a cut metal plate which spins on an axis and shows the direction of the wind. It is generally put on the top of a roof.
> Poulaines were shoes with long curved points which were very fashionable in the Middle Ages.
Go back to place du Marché-aux-Cochons-de-Lait and go left towards place de la Grande-Boucherie.

On your left is the former "Grande Boucherie". It was a municipal slaughterhouse where people could also go to buy meat. Today it is the Historical Museum which you can visit for free and which will tell you all about the history of the city.

In front of you is a long building, built in 1358, which is called the Former Customs House.

Look carefully at the roof of the Former Customs House; you will see that it has lots of small openings: these were to air the lofts where grain was stored. These roofs can only be seen in Strasbourg.

Look around and imagine what life must have been like in the Middle Ages.

From this bridge, called the bridge of tortures, prisoners condemned to death were thrown into the river in cloth sacks sown up at both ends.

Turn left and walk up to the pont du Corbeau.

QUESTION 6
According to its name, what was the Former Customs House?
- a restaurant
- a warehouse where the boatmen paid a tax on the goods that they transported
- a hotel
